

What are the high-leverage initiatives and tactics to address?

Objectives

- Present the objectives for the company or product
- Best to have only one or two objectives
- Objectives should be SMART (e.g., Specific, Measurable, Aggressive, Realistic and Time-Specific)

Strategic Initiatives

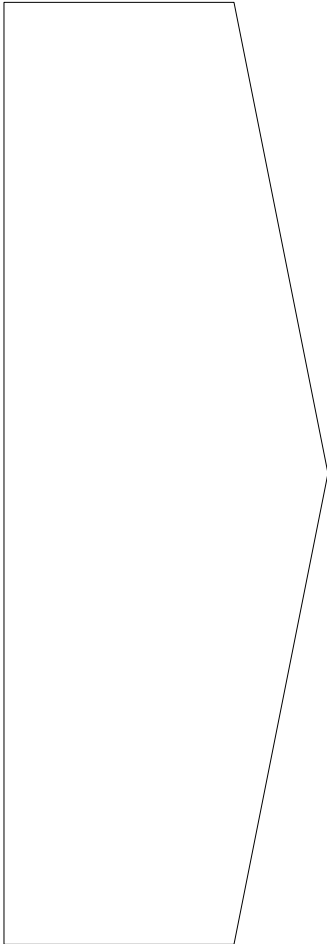

- Identify the strategic initiatives to drive the business. What needs to happen to achieve the objective?
- Strategic initiatives are always actions, such as driving trial on a new product or building loyalty among heavy users
- It is best to have three or four strategic initiatives

Marketing Tactics

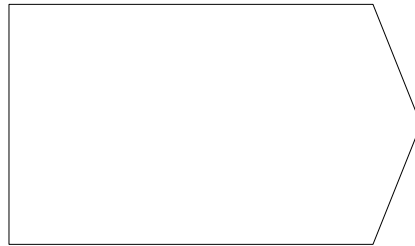

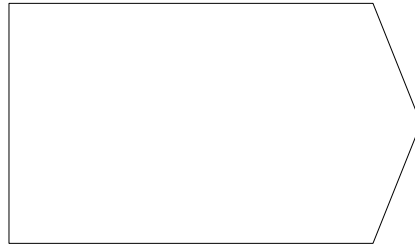

- This section presents the tactics supporting each strategic initiative along with rationale, as necessary
- For example, a strategic initiative of increasing marketing lead-production might have tactics such as integrating CRM and inbound marketing systems, building content & community, etc.
- Each initiative should have tactics and each tactic should be linked to an initiative with anticipated qualitative or quantitative outcomes

Milestones and Tracking

- What needs to happen for the plan to work? What are the key dates? Who is responsible?
- Are there key events or due dates (e.g., key conference, budget cycles, sell-in cycles, material/launch lead-times, etc.) that need to be considered in the timeline?
- There should only be a few milestones
